

OH BEEHIVE (AGAIN)! by LeXman

At last year's Con, I presented a beehive puzzle with only two bees in it; this puzzle has nine (but of the Boston variety).

As before, the clues here are grouped in threes, numbered by the hexagon where the three answers cross. Enumerations are withheld, so it is up to the solver to determine which answer goes where. Note also that words can go in all six directions: for example, a word entered horizontally in the grid could run either left-to-right or right-to-left.

1. Come to the place where the author of "The Raven" finally met the author of "Howl," for example (2 words)
Dispute a picture on the Internet
Find your way incorrectly: not bearing right, that is
2. Endure barback monopolizing attention (2 words)
Express disapproval about false patch of hair
You head away empty – no alcoholic beverage
3. Albion is full of history
Beginning to engage in catch: back and forth toy
Counter simpleton's complaint
4. Beheaded flamboyant, revolutionary pair
Blonde crazy about a friend (2 words)
Subject of Theology at Sorbonne University after decline
5. A grain's seed
Move slowly in church
Shell's average corrosion
6. Caves in: investor gets backing
Food, left out and turned stale
Odd of exploit to include bishop
7. Making a comeback, headliner sings
Promise to a thespian's characters
Tortured basest creatures
8. Cracked code like they did it in the 1930's
Main library I've cleared out
Where you got this light

9. Keeping up with it, cook in oil – like some apple fritters, for example
Looks at you be foolish, dropping out
Revised story to include end of the sea creature
10. Animal circling a shopping center
Dragged vehicle
Pronoun, infinitive, verb form: the beginning of sentence structure's support (2 words)
11. A "Let Be" rocker!
At retrospective, thank you and goodbye (hyph.)
What every kitchen should have: alcoholic beverage (consuming a ton)
12. Feature of a specific beach resort: untidy
Happy you finally lead at following expert's tip
Treble clef laid bare at the end of passage
13. A gym bruiser
Bend pipe before fabrication
Careful with the first of your dance spins